What Data We Process and Why

We collect data such as first name, last name, email address, phone number, shipping details, company information, or any information you voluntarily provide via our website forms, in email correspondence, or publicly available personal data that may be obtained to initiate business contact.

The data is used to respond to inquiries, fulfill orders, conduct correspondence, issue documents (e.g., invoices), and—if you give your consent—for marketing purposes.

The data is stored mainly in secure cloud services such as Google Workspace (Google Drive) and in the HubSpot system, which we use for contact and customer communication management. Data may also be temporarily downloaded locally to a computer (e.g., to print an invoice) with appropriate safeguards in place.

Sharing Personal Data

Personal data is not shared with any third parties except for:

- courier companies (e.g., FedEx, DHL, UPS)—to the extent necessary to complete delivery,
- accounting offices and legal advisors—if required by law,

- public administration authorities—only when there is a legal obligation to provide the data.

In exceptional situations, when we are unable to fulfill a request ourselves, we may—based on legitimate interest—share contact details (e.g., a business email address) with a trusted business partner solely to enable cooperation between interested parties.

Any data subject may object to such processing and sharing of contact details. In such cases, we will not share data with other entities for the purpose described.

Legal Basis for Processing

We process personal data based on:

- your consent (e.g., for marketing contact, cookies),
 - necessity to perform a contract or take steps prior to entering into a contract,
 - legal obligations (e.g., invoice retention),
 - our legitimate interest, such as analysis, customer communication, or complaint handling.

Data Retention Period

We store data only for the period necessary to achieve the purpose:

- Contact and order data – up to 5 years;
 - Accounting data (e.g., invoices) – according to legal requirements, e.g., 5 years following the end of a fiscal year;
 - Marketing data – until consent is withdrawn,
 - Local files – deleted after completing the operational process (e.g., printing)

Rights of Data Subjects

You have the right to:

- access your data,
- rectify or supplement your data,
- erase your data (“right to be forgotten”),
- restrict processing,
- object to processing,
- transfer your data to another administrator (where technically feasible),

- to provide personal data in connection with the concluded contract/services is voluntary, but necessary for the conclusion and performance of contracts/services – without giving any personal data it is impossible to conclude a contract/services.

We do not engage in automated decision-making or profiling that produces legal effects.
